INDUSTRIAL PURIFICATION

Remove contaminants from industrial water to meet specific quality standards for various manufacturing processes

Common stages:

Pre-treatment: Initial screening to remove large debris.

Primary treatment: Sedimentation and coagulation to settle larger particles.

Secondary treatment: Filtration using various media like sand, carbon, or membrane filters to remove smaller particles.

Tertiary treatment: Advanced techniques like reverse osmosis for removing dissolved solids

An industrial purification system offers several benefits including:

- ✓ Protecting equipment from damage by removing contaminants
- ✓ Improving product quality
- ✓ Reducing maintenance costs
- ✓ Enhancing operational efficiency
- ✓ Minimizing environmental impact
- ✓ Ensuring compliance with regulations by consistently providing clean water
